NO NEW PROBLEMS

DR. WILLISFORD HOLDS WAR HAS NOT CHANGED MEN OR FUNDAMENTAL CONDITIONS

Fifteen or more members of the Glendale Congregational Church journeyed to Los Angeles Friday night to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Congregational Church Extension Society which was held in the First Congregational Church, of that city. Covers were laid for about two hundred representatives of Congregational Churches in Southern California. Following the banquet reports were given and officers for the ensuing year were chosen, Attorney Hartley Shaw and Rev. E. H. Willisford of this city being elected members of the Board of Directors.

The principal addresses were made by Dr. George H. Andrews of the Plymouth Congregational Church, L. A.; Dr. Carl S. Patton of the First Congregational Church, L. A., and Dr. E. H. Willisford of this city, all having been in overseas service. The theme in general of all the talks was reconstruction work from the standpoint of their war experience. Dr. Willisford particularly dwelt on the effect the war had had on the mind of the soldier. He does not thoroughly agree with those who believe that the great conflict will necessarily bring about a great religious development. He contends that neither Billy Sunday nor bullets can make saints out of all men. He says, however, that the men who have been in battle at the front have come to have a realization that there is a God in the universe and have been awakened to realities. This is noticeable in many men who heretofore have been indifferent and careless. He illustrated it by quoting the declaration he once heard made by a lieutenant who had just come back from the front: "I and my Maker had some pretty intimate talk in that shuffie." "They come to feel," he said, "there is a divine being and perhaps I am going to meet Him now," but that awakening may not make saints of them, the pastor declares.

Mr. Willisford does not consider that reconstruction problems are new either with regard to the church or more material matters. The divisions that have been going on ever since the early church was formed in his opinion were but efforts on the part of reformers to reconstruct the church for its betterment. Now the movement is toward unification, but nothing organic has yet been effected though he hopes it is coming. The labor problem, he declares, is not new either since history tells us that Pharaoh had his labor troubles in the building of the pyramids.

He is planning to give a series of addresses based on his experiences and the conclusions he has reached. Two of these addresses will be given Sunday at the morning and evening services at the Glendale Congregational Church.

MARSHAL STIMSON

CHAIRMAN OF FOUR-MINUTE
MEN OF S. C. WILL SPEAK
HERE

Glendale people will have the opportunity to hear Marshal Stimson, well-known Southern California orator, Monday evening, when he will give an address on "Reconstruction in Education," at the High School auditorium under the auspices of the High School Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Mitchell, program chairman of the association, and Mrs. Richardson, patriotic chairman, are planning some other splendid numbers for the program, among them Francis J. W. Henry in impersonations of Harry Lauder and solos by Mrs. Hellyer.

OUR DAILY AUTO WRECK STORY

Glendale police court annals record an automobile crash here almost daily. Yesterday's smash-up took place in the afternoon at Acacia and Brand when H. A. Harrison of 117 Acacia, who was driving a Ford car into the boulevard was struck by a heavier machine driven by W. E. Ward of Los Angeles according to the official report. The left front wheel of Harrison's car was smashed and other dents and scars made on his car. Mr. Ward is said to have agreed to pay the costs of repair.

WOE FOR POOR FIDO

In an official announcement in this issue of the Glendale Evening News, the city warns that all dogs must be properly licensed and tagged for the year of 1919, under penalty of having poor Fido dragged off to the city pound, and later shot if not rescued by the owner with the proper license fee.

GLENDALE DEBATERS

LOSE TO HOLLYWOOD AND WIN
FROM SANTA MONICA IN FRIDAY CONTESTS

Neither at Santa Monica nor at Glendale did as large an audience as usually comes out to enjoy a high school debate appear Friday evening when Frank Balthis and John Worley went to the beach city to sustain the honor of their school, accompanied by Prof. W. D. Root and Mr. Worley, father of the debater. Rain was the cause of the small audiences in both cases.

At our own school Philip Werne, editor of the "Explosion," and Guy Bennett debated the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That the United States government should return the railroads to private management not later than 21 months after the conclusion of a treaty of peace." Their opponents, who were from Hollywood High, were Katherine Tilden and Frank Moody. The judges were Dr. H. G. Shearin, head of the English Department of Occidental, Ben Milliken, principal of Covina High, and J. F. Clewe, debating instructor of Jefferson High. While the local boys did extremely well and presented good points in an effective way, the decision of the judges was unanimously in favor of Hollywood.

At Santa Monica our boys were matched against Ned Prather, who is a champion for his school, and Miss Volkmer. The judges were Prof. A. McCurda, of the State Normal (Continued on Page 3)

THE ASTRA FILM COMPANY

The Astra Film Company, which has recently purchased the studio buildings and equipment on Verdugo Road formerly occupied by the Di-ando Film Company, has taken a lease of the ground on which they stand for several years and secured additional land sufficient to give it about 22 acres. The management announces that it is here to stay and that it is planning extensive improvements and betterments which will make it possible to handle several companies at one time. Louis Gassner, president of the organization, which is said to be one of the big concerns with studios in New Jersey, is now here. A new, open stage, a new laboratory and many other new features are mentioned among the improvements soon to be undertaken. Its cast of players now at work includes Ruth Roland, Pearl White and several others distinguished in the film world.

The company is at present engaged on a serial featuring Ruth Roland and George Larkin, the last named being a well-known Glendale man who has appeared in many Vitagraph productions. Like most serials it is full of dangerous incidents and one of the most important of its properties is a live tiger for which a double cave has been built, said to be the largest ever shown on a screen. The walls of the cage in which this treacherous beast is confined are 12 feet high. The picture, which is called "The Tiger Face" is being directed by Paul Hurst, who is also a Glendale man. C. Rehfeld is the studio manager and has his hands more than full superintending the improvement work going on and to be inaugurated, and looking after the business affairs of the company.

TORONTO LADIES HONORED

Mrs. T. A. Robinson of 132 North Maryland avenue was hostess at a luncheon party Friday afternoon, at which Mrs. Hector Prenter and Mrs. Bernice Sprague of Toronto, Canada, were the guests of honor. Both of these ladies are members of the Toronto Single Tax League and others who are interested in the movement were invited to meet them. The luncheon table was daintily appointed and centered with a bowl of violets. Covers were laid for Mrs. Katherine Alexander, Mrs. Vivian R. Webb, Mrs. Lucy Durham, Mrs. A. M. Salyer, the guests of honor and the hostess. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Sprague, who are distinguished musicians, furnished delightful piano numbers.

ENTERTAINS FOR HER MOTHER

Mrs. W. Van Hazelen, of 352 West Park avenue, entertained Thursday with a pretty luncheon in honor of her mother, Mrs. George P. DeYoung of Chicago. The guests, with one exception, were all former residents of the Windy City, who are now sojourning in Los Angeles, and included the following: Mrs. Hannema and little daughter Eleanor, Mrs. J. Tulp, Mrs. McNeal, Mrs. D. H. Gerretsen, Mrs. E. G. Gerretsen, Master Lloyd Gerretsen, Mrs. J. Vernand, Miss M. Vernand and Mr. Gerla of Iowa.

DEMobilIZATION GOES FORWARD APACE

DISCHARGES SINCE ARMISTICE TOTAL 952,411 MEN AND 61,237 OFFICERS, WITH 152,000 FROM OVERSEAS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Feb. 1.—Chief of Staff General March announced today that there have been 952,411 men and 61,237 officers, from overseas and from camps at home, discharged from the army since the armistice was signed.

A total of 152,000 men have returned from overseas. Thirty-three general officers have been honorably discharged to keep pace with demobilization.

COMING AROUND TO WILSON'S VIEWS

BELIEF THAT ACCEPTANCE OF HIS 14 POINTS WILL MAKE A SECOND TRIP TO FRANCE UNNECESSARY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Paris, Feb. 1.—The usual Saturday session of the entire peace conference was postponed today to permit delegates to speed up work on the plan for a league of nations.

The belief was expressed today that it will not be necessary for President Wilson to return to France a second time, as the peace delegates are showing a marked tendency to accept in principle the application of his fourteen points.

All parties, including President Wilson, are anxious to hasten the work. President Wilson himself thinks he has won the most important victories and that future decisions by the conference will accord with his principles.

It is understood that the framework of the league of nations will be completed in a very few days.

Special committees on international labor legislation and on reparation of damages are meeting this afternoon.

VIENNA SHOPS PILLAGED BY MOBS

THOUSANDS OF UNEMPLOYED MARCH ON PARLIAMEN-TARY BUILDINGS, BUT ARE DISPERSED BY POLICE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Vienna, Feb. 1.—The entire Vienna police force was called out yesterday to suppress a mob of thousands of unemployed who pillaged shops and marched on the parliamentary buildings. Many arrests were made. The crowd finally was dispersed without great violence. Radical speeches started the demonstration by urging the people to refuse to pay rent until they were given work.

GERMANS AND POLES IN BATTLE

HUNS ATTACK POLISH FORCES ON EASTERN FRONT AND CAPTURE THREE VILLAGES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Zurich, Switzerland, Feb. 1.—German troops attacked the Poles at several points on the eastern front yesterday, capturing three villages, according to dispatches reaching here today. A quantity of artillery and machine guns were seized.

ALLIES TO WITHDRAW FROM RUSSIA

BRITISH AND U. S. TROOPS TO BE RECALLED IMMEDIATE-LY—FRENCH POLICY NOT ANNOUNCED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Paris, Feb. 1.—It was authoritatively learned today that the United States, with the support of Great Britain, has submitted to France a proposal for the immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Russia.

This action followed recent unofficial information that the Lenine government in Russia is willing to meet the Allies and the other Russian factions in the Prince's Island conference if the Allied forces are withdrawn.

It is understood the British are planning to withdraw their troops by March 1, independent of whatever action the United States and France may take. British military officials feel that withdrawal from Archangel is necessary immediately because the port soon will be frozen in, making withdrawal impossible. The French have not yet intimated what action they favor.

While no answer to the Allied proposal for a conference has been received from Lenine, American agents in Russia have conferred with him and have reported that he favors a conference if Allied troops are withdrawn. Foreign Minister Trotzky, however, wants the troops kept in Russia, saying that their presence heightens the revolutionary spirit, not only in Russia, but throughout the world.

POINDEXTER A PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

New York, Feb. 1.—Republican leaders today were considering Senator Poindexter of Washington as a presidential possibility, following his speech in New York last night, when he advocated the revival of the American spirit.

JANUARY BIG MONTH

GLENDALE MERCHANTS REPORT
BUSINESS BEST EVER DUR-ING PAST THIRTY DAYS

The majority of local business houses report that January, 1919, is a banner month in the annals of their commercial careers. In making a canvass of a large number of stores today, an Evening News representative found that all of the merchants were not only pleased at the large amount of business done during the month, but they were also anticipating the best sort of a season to follow.

This year many Glendale stores will be equipped with vastly larger stocks of goods than ever before. Residents here are learning that trading at home pays in more ways than one.

Unsettled market conditions have caused some of the grocery concerns to reduce their stock temporarily, but by the Saturday's offerings announced in last night's Evening News, they are giving just as good bargains and they are prepared to meet the public's demands. However, they will let the market gamblers take the losses on storage stuff by laying in low stocks of such supplies.

LET GLENDALE BE DECENT

In the minutes of the City Trustees' Meeting, as published in the Glendale Evening News of Jan. 31, 1919, the following statement was made:

The City Manager reported that he had been informed by Mr. LeGrand, agent of the Pac. Elec. Ry. Co. in Glendale that it is the intention of the company to discontinue the keeping open of the depot waiting room at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway on Sundays and holidays; but that the same may be kept open for the accommodation of the public if the City of Glendale will assume the expense. On motion of Trustee Henry, duly seconded and carried, it was ordered that the keeping open of this station on Sundays and holidays as far as any expense to the City is concerned, be discontinued.

Perhaps the City Manager and Board of Trustees have a plan for furnishing lavatory accommodations, if this building is to be closed. We cannot imagine the city allowing this building to be closed upon these days when the greatest number of sight-seers and tourists are visiting our city, without first, wisely making plans for the accommodation of these strangers. If no plan has been arranged for, to take care of this very important question, it will be taken up at once by the public and the people will be allowed to give expression as how best to take care of this great need.

PLURIGLANDULAR THERAPY

Slackers have had no possible chance in the printing plant of the Glendale Evening News Company this week where the presses have been going from early morn until a late closing hour, printing twenty-five thousand copies of a sixteen-page pamphlet, which is being sent out by Dr. Henry R. Harrower, of this city, on Pluriglandular Therapy showing the effective combination of endocrine preparations handled by the doctor's laboratory. This in addition to a multitude of other orders has kept all hands busy.

SERGEANT PARKER IN COBLENZ

Sergeant Howard E. Parker, son of Mr. Ezra Parker of this city, forwarded his father a German helmet as a war souvenir. The sergeant is now stationed with the Army of Occupation in Coblenz, Germany. In speaking of the souvenir, the elder Mr. Parker here said: "I wouldn't give the thing house-room except that my son sent it to me. I hate the sight of anything German made." He states his son wishes to return to America. Another son, a lieutenant in the air forces overseas, wishes to remain and travel in some of the more picturesque portions of the continent if suitable arrangements can be made.

BOYS LIKE CAKES

Chief of Police Lampert had five hearty boys to reprimand this morning for their activities in investigating the contents of cake containers which are set out by city bakers in front of several local grocery stores during the "wee hours of morn." The chief impressed the youngsters with the idea that these cakes were merchants' property and to take the same, even though the boys were hungry, was the same as taking money from the grocers.

WILKINS RETURN

AGAIN AT HOME AFTER MONTH'S SOJOURN IN COLORADO

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilkins, who are very well known in connection with their poultry yards on Colorado and San Fernando Road, returned Friday night from a month's stay in Colorado, where they went especially to visit Mr. Wilkins' mother—in declining years and not very strong. Their visit proved a decided stimulant and they left her in better health than when they arrived. They report pretty cold weather during their stay, the mercury ranging from 2 to 30 degrees below zero at Montrose and Delta where most of their time was spent.

They say they were sorry to miss the Los Angeles poultry exhibits this month, although the bulk of their stock is of the commercial sort which does not compete at shows. Mrs. Wilkins has some fine Leghorns however, and some Barred Plymouth Rocks of the Thompson (New York) strain of which she is very proud. This strain is known as "Thompson's Imperial Ringlets" and whenever the birds are shown at Madison Square Gardens, or any of the other big poultry shows, they always capture the prizes. Mr. Wilkins referred to the poultry show in Los Angeles in December in connection with the Liberty Fair when an exhibitor who had purchased a few birds at a cost of $2000 took all the premiums.

Relative to the outlook for the poultry business Mr. Wilkins said it would be very bright were it not for the fact that the milling combine at once increased the price of flour and feed as soon as the government retired from price fixing. He thinks there is no justification for the present high prices.

PINK AND YELLOW LUNCHEON

Mrs. Colin Cable, of Columbus avenue, entertained Friday with a pretty luncheon of several courses at which the guests of honor were her old friend from St. Joseph, Missouri, Mrs. H. T. Hartwig, who leaves for home next Monday, and Mrs. Charles Bosserman of La Porte, Indiana. A pink and yellow color scheme was carried out in floral decorations of Eucharist carnations and Acacia, and in the nut baskets and other dainty appointments. The list of ladies entertained included besides the guests of honor: Mrs. Helen Bennett and Miss Gertrude Bennett of Manhattan Place, Los Angeles, Mrs. H. J. Emerson of the same city, Mrs. John Combs of Hollywood, Mrs. Le Roy Bosserman of Glendale.

WILLFUL OMISSION

EDITOR IS PEEVED BECAUSE HE HASN'T SEEN HIS NAME
IN PAPER

Having been a constant reader of the Glendale Evening News since taken down with influenza Sunday, January 26th, ult., and having noticed no mention made of my case in that valuable paper, I wish to have it stated that I have the honor of being a victim of the "flu." I went to bed Sunday and all went well until Tuesday night, when I lost myself, and it was only after several hours of diligent searching that I found myself near the Los Angeles river just north of Los Feliz Road, lying in the weeds and debris. My body was in an emaciated and slimy condition, with my clothing mostly rotted away. It was by a great effort on my part that I succeeded in dragging myself from this place of desolation and get started on the road to recovery which, I assure you, will take place as soon as "King Flu" lets me out of his clutches.

—A. T. Cowan, a reader who wishes to be represented.

NEEDLEWORK PARTY

Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, of Orange street, was hostess Wednesday at a pretty afternoon tea and needlework party for Mrs. W. J. Marsh, soon to leave the city and return with Mr. Marsh to their ranch near Yorba Linda. She and her husband have made many friends during his pastorate here and they will be missed in the community. Cake and ice cream were served at the close of the afternoon.

The guest list included: Mesdames Hartley Shaw, A. S. Chase, O. E. Von Oven, J. Blake Franklin, S. R. Frazer, H. W. Yarrick, W. D. McRae, E. D. Yard, Irene McReynolds, A. R. Chappell, A. H. Chapman, W. J. Marsh, Mabel Franklin Ocker and Mrs. Bullinger.

Christian Science Lecture by Miss Mary G. Ewing, C. S. B.

Miss Mary G. Ewing, C. S. B., of Chicago, Ill., a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, delivered a lecture on "Christian Science, Friday evening, under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Glendale, in the church edifice, California and Maryland avenues.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Dale G. Vaughan, First Reader of the church, who said:

Today, as never before, the world is seeking for freedom and peace.

Jesus said, "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." All during the centuries since that time, mankind has been searching for the truth of which Jesus spoke.

Many are finding it, today, in Christian Science, and in the degree that they are putting into practice the teachings of Christian Science, are they proving that truth does indeed make free, and that it also brings that peace which passeth all human understanding.

You have been invited here this evening to listen to a lecture on Christian Science by one qualified to speak on this subject, and it is my pleasure to introduce to you Miss Mary G. Ewing, C. S. B., of Chicago, Illinois, Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Miss Ewing in her lecture said:

In my preparation for this lecture I have been wonderfully comforted and encouraged by some verses in the opening chapter of the book of Jeremiah. You may remember that there came to Jeremiah, through the word of the Lord, a clear, distinct revelation of his true origin and parentage, and of his own sanctification and dedication to the work of a prophet. And yet, as he perceived that this imposed upon him the preaching of the truth as to the spiritual origin and nature of man to a people blinded by materialism, he shrank from the task with a sense of his own weakness. In writing his simple record he makes a vivid picture of the conflict going on in his thought. He may have been young in years, but I have no sense that it was of this alone that he was thinking when he cried, "Ah, Lord God! behold, I cannot speak: for I am a child." And then the Lord answered him: "Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee" (Jeremiah 1:6-8). And Jeremiah goes on to tell us that then the Lord put forth his hand and touched his mouth, and that the Lord said unto him, "Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth" (Jeremiah 1:9).

And now, knowing that to me has been given the same message, at least in essence, and realizing the urgent need of humanity today to be told the truth about life itself, I, in my turn, must trust to God to put into my mouth His words which will touch your hearts and lead you to listen with unprejudiced thought to what I have to say to you; for truly, I come to you to-night with no "enticing words of man's wisdom" but with a message of healing born of deepest and tenderest experience. To bring to any of you who may feel that he is suffering from sorrow, disease, poverty, or sin, some measure of the knowledge of good which he can begin to use practically at this very moment, to loose him from this burden of suffering—this is my privilege, my hope, my confidence. There is healing—tender, compassionate healing—in the first right idea we gain of the true nature of good, and it is possible for you and for me to gain that right idea here and now.

I, myself, am a Christian Scientist to-day because many years ago, in a time of sorrow and fear, when my own dear father had been given up by physicians to die, he was quickly restored to health by Christian Science treatment. At the time that this miracle, this marvel, happened to us we had never heard the words "Christian" and "Science" coupled; indeed, we had more or less the world's sense that in some mysterious and fundamental way Christianity and science were opposite and irreconcilable. At the time of this healing we began to study the textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, and for all these years that book—the inspired revelation to this age of the true Science of Life—has been our comforting, enlightening, and healing teacher and friend. It began at once to give us a new and true basis of thought; to educate us out of our petty, limited and selfish sense of life; to free us from fear of sickness and accident, poverty and misfortune; it emptied our well-filled medicine chest of all its drugs and tonics and plasters; it began to make us happier and healthier and more active and useful; it healed our sicknesses; in fine, it worked a revolution in our daily living, and the truth that we were learning spread from us to others and began to work the same miracle in other lives. During all the years that have elapsed since then, Christian Science has been our only physician, and the Christian Science textbook has been our daily guide and counsellor. And I rejoice to be able truthfully to declare to you, as one proof of the inspired character of Science and Health, that this great work of Mary Baker Eddy is to me to-day, after these many years of reading and study, more profoundly interesting and helpful than ever before, and that it constantly reveals new beauties and new treasures of meaning.

When the lawyer from among the group of Pharisees and Sadducees, harking back to the materialistic and mistaken sense of Judaism, asked Jesus (Matt. 22:36-40), "Master, which is the great commandment in the law?" our Master replied, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." This is a profound and entirely metaphysical teaching; a setting forth in concise and direct fashion of the fact underlying all manifestation of life; a presentation of the truth about God and man, the absolutely necessary fundamental knowledge upon which, as Jesus says so tersely, hang all the law and the prophets.

I accept wholeheartedly the definition of God which Mrs. Eddy gives in Science and Health (p. 465) in the chapter "Recapitulation." I also accept unreservedly her statement on the same page that these seven terms which she uses to define God, "Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love," are synonymous; that is, that they so literally and absolutely mean the same thing that they are to be used the one in the place of the other. In order to have any adequate comprehension of this, you must remember that Mrs. Eddy does not use these words in the ordinarily accepted, superficial sense, but that their basic meaning has been ascertained and understood and is here presented. As one begins to use these terms interchangeably, it gradually dawns upon his thought that each of them conveys to him, in some degree, the meaning associated with the others, and yet that all are necessary to gain a broad and vital knowledge of the creative power,—a complete understanding of the profound significance of the word "God." When the individual accepts this definition of God as a basis of thought (and this is the real key to the Scriptures which Mrs. Eddy has fitted to the willing hand), then there follows logically and inevitably a correct idea of the universe, including man, as the creation of God—a universe and a man expressing the power and might, the beauty and grandeur, of an infinite intelligence which is good.

The great French lexicographer, Larousse, defines metaphysics as "knowledge of first causes and of first principles" (connaissance des causes premières et des premiers principes), and in this sense Christian Science is exact, accurate, demonstrable metaphysics. Mrs. Eddy gave its keynote when she wrote, "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered" (Science and Health, p. 170). Christian Science is the supreme answer to the uttered and unuttered questioning of all time, which questioning Pilate voiced when he cried, "What is truth?"

Mrs. Eddy gained her knowledge of Principle directly from the Bible, and when, through reason and revelation corroborated by exact and scientific demonstration or proof, she had established her discovery of the system which she called Christian Science, she wrote her great textbook. It may be said of her, as Zacharias said of his son John: "Thou shalt go before the face of the Lord: for to make ready his wayes for to show science and helthe to his people" (Luc 1:17-18 Wycliffe). I am quoting this from the Wycliffe translation, that first English version which, as one writer says, we owe "to a faith that the Bible is a book of emancipation for the mind" (McAfee—The Greatest English Classic, p. 12).

Mrs. Eddy named her book through inspiration. It is an interesting fact that she was not familiar with this phrase "science and helthe" in the quaint and exact English of Wycliffe, and did not become acquainted with it until some six months after she had made her choice of title. Comparing this translation, "to show science and helthe to his people" with the corresponding expression in our King James Version, "to give knowledge of salvation unto his people," we become conscious of the intimate relationship in meaning between "health" and "salvation."

The Bible is not one book but many books,—veritably a collection of the masterpieces of a mighty literature; the outpouring of the heart and soul of a great people who, in spite of their lack of perception and through all their wanderings in the maze of mortality and material belief, still clung more closely than any other people to the idea of one God, one universal, ever present and ever potent Mind. Moses, their great leader, saw this so clearly that he tabulated the law and furnished the foundation for all modern law, and he caught beautiful though fleeting views of a more spiritual sense of Life and Love. Centuries later in fulfillment of prophecy and revelation came Jesus, that marvelous genius who understood and demonstrated the truth of being as no one else has yet done,—Jesus, the loving Way-shower to humanity, to you and to me,—who, by the meekness and might of his transcendent life, earned and won the unique distinction of the title Jesus, the Christ, "Jesus, the God-crowned or the divinely royal man," as Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 313).

Now the Bible is valuable to us only in proportion to our recognition of the right idea of God. The Bible was written through inspiration, reflection of intelligence; it can only be understood through inspiration, that same reflection of intelligence. The Bible is not only a history of ages of human experience, of a people, but it is a record and prophecy of the experience of each individual human consciousness in its putting off of the old man and its putting on of "the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness" (Ephesians 4:24). It is, indeed, in this aspect that it is most valuable to you and to me.

The merely mortal and material concept of the Bible can do nothing to uplift and heal mankind; but even a glimpse of the spiritual meaning of a single passage, such as the First Commandment, can and does illumine human experience with celestial light and begins at once to destroy "the darkness of sin and sickness. If it were possible to have every copy of the Bible wiped out of existence, there would still eventually be rewritten the substance of its message, for it is the outcome of experience, the epitome of the human struggle to find and follow Truth; it is the record of the demonstration of Love. Christian Science destroys cant and superstition and establishes the divine inspiration of Holy Writ through absolute demonstration of its truth.

I am shocked sometimes to realize how careless we still are of this priceless treasure. Do we, who know we love the Bible, read it with even the same attention and interest that we would give to a modern history? Take, for instance, the book of Deuteronomy, the orations and songs of Moses, his farewell to his people Israel; sit down quietly and read it from cover to cover at one sitting and then seek the opportunity to re-read it before the first fine impress of its wonder and vigor is dulled. Holding in thought constantly, as you should now be doing, this fundamental right idea of good as the only source or origin of life and action, you cannot fail to be inspired to the point of understanding the treasures of spiritual counsel and comfort which Moses shared with the children of Israel then and which we, as children of Israel (as the offspring of Spirit) share to-day.

To-day, as in all the ages of history, the cry of men is for life, for love, for health, for freedom from the bondage to evil, for the coming of that day, which St. John so wonderfully describes, when "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying" (Rev. 21:4). It is the sweet and simple demonstrable knowledge of God which brings to human consciousness the dawning light of this great day. Since we have had revealed to us some measure of this knowledge, can you wonder that we long to share with the world the treasure that has brought peace and joy into our own lives?

The fundamental truth of Christian Science is the fact about causation, that good, Mind, Spirit, is the only active, operative intelligence, or creative energy. From this it follows logically and inevitably that the universe, including man, the product of this intelligence, is spiritual. Once accept this basic teaching and you are compelled to admit its correlative,—the unreality, the impotence, the falsity and entire mortality of evil and matter. The creative power of Mind, of good,—the Fatherhood and Motherhood of God,—is the primal fact of existence; the relationship between the creator and His creation, between parent and child, is unchanging and indissoluble.

Now, do not misunderstand me. I in no way wish to minimize or ignore what the world calls evil; I have no disposition to spread any mantle of charity over ignorance, inertia, discord, sickness, strife, or to cry, "Peace, peace; when there is no peace." It is undoubtedly necessary to-day to understand what is called evil, to deal with it radically and unflinchingly, but I earnestly maintain that no material method has ever been or ever will be devised which will so deal with the woes of the world. Christian Science does heal sickness and sin in all their myriad phases, and it does this by destroying the mistaken ideas which give rise to sin and sickness; it heals by giving the individual this right idea of causation, this true concept of God and man which, when established, in turn makes perfectly clear the baselessness and unreality of the appearance of evil. To go back to our definition of God: if these seven terms which Mrs. Eddy uses in defining God are synonymous, then, on the other hand, the exact opposites of these terms are synonymous, and in grouping them together one finds himself in possession of an accurate and comprehensive definition of evil. As one accustoms himself to think along these lines he will soon perceive that since Spirit, Truth, Love, God, mean exactly the same thing and signify that "substance of things hoped for" about which St. Paul tells us; so matter, falsity, hate, devil, mean exactly the same thing and their fundamental unreality is revealed. You cannot logically avoid the conclusion that there is indeed no truth outside of Love and no love save the mighty Truth, which is the infinite Father-Mother God. Nothing truthful can be unloving or unlovely; nothing loving can be lacking in veracity, integrity, or spirituality.

The truth is tender and gentle, full of compassion and protection, but through its very presence and existence falsity is inevitably uncovered and destroyed. Love is the all-powerful, animating source of all the good we know, and by being, Love destroys hate; it is not possible to conceive, for a moment, of Love as recognizing, knowing, or being touched by hate. So Spirit, by existing, precludes the existence of matter. Here again, as I have said before, we are not using the word spirit in its commonly accepted, vague, illusory, and superficial sense, but in its true and fundamental meaning, as practically identical with substance. Our false theories about life and its origin have led us to accept material beliefs about all things, and we have named our mistaken sense of substance, matter, and accepted as real and inevitable its phenomena. Having accepted a false premise, it is impossible to make any correct or reliable deduction, and so it is absolutely necessary to get back to the truth about life itself, in order to have any basis for right reasoning.

Truly the teaching of Christian Science — this teaching of spiritual causation so revolutionary to the material sense of things—is absolute and radical, but it comes as Jesus its demonstrator said he came, not to destroy one jot or tittle of the law but to fulfill that law in love.

Our present sense of individual capacity and power, of the meaning of health and happiness, of life and love,—our present sense of country and of our love and devotion to it,—all this may be poor and meager, and yet Christian Science, this right idea, comes not to destroy it but to uplift, to purify, to enlarge and deepen our knowledge of its source, and to exalt and beautify our expression of it. It comes to make us happy and well, joyous, honest, loving and lovable, intelligent and beautiful; no good gift is denied to us as God's children.

The great mission of Christian Science is to teach us to think accurately, independently, spontaneously, and to reason honestly from the standpoint of understanding of true causation. This ability to think clearly and correctly, which is ours as a God-given capacity, enables us to understand the law of divine Principle and so detect and uncover the falsity of the phenomena which are contrary to divine Principle; it also arms us with power to dispose of such phenomena in proportion to our understanding of their ephemeral and unreal character. Now disease is one of these phenomena which lays great claims upon our daily experience and holds the human race in bondage, and I know that I am right in saying that health will never be gained nor will it ever be maintained by any system that fails to eradicate disease. It is unquestionably true that the very foundation of all discordant human conditions lies in a mistaken sense of the source of life itself. Jesus meant this when he said, "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing," and to-day, in the accurate and systematic teaching of our Christian Science textbook, we have the explanation of the rule Jesus laid down and the necessary guidance for its proper application to our every need.

Back of all manifestation of evil lies the false supposition of an evil intelligence, of a mind opposed to God, and this false supposition, utterly untrue and inactive as it really is, is still the only source for that which seems to be malicious, destructive, hateful, and hating, and from this suppositious source spring all the principalities and powers of materialism,—the tyranny and domination of sensual and selfish aims and purposes. I urge upon you the persistent refutation of this calumny of error from the standpoint of the utter falsity of its origin,—from the standpoint of the absolute, scientific knowledge of Life. In this process of acknowledging Truth and denying and correcting error we discover that knowing of the truth which is to make us free, and through this educational process which Christian Science demands we are led to reject promptly and positively the suggestions of disease, of poverty and sin and fear of death. We accomplish this work not by begging a personal God to do us an unmerited favor and certainly not by formula or the mechanical repetition of statements in fine phrases, even though those statements in themselves be true; no, not in this way, but by the willingness to submit our false sense of personal good to the will of Intelligence,—by humble, loving, heartfelt prayer. Jesus once said, "If two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven" (Matt. 18:19); but how sadly has his meaning been perverted when it is possible for men to believe that there is virtue in the concerted repetition of certain phrases at given hours, or that the so-called concentration of thought and desire can be used to bring to pass results in accord with limited, selfish, human purposes. Much that is purely mesmeric in its character has been called prayer, and to-day one of the greatest reasons for gratitude to the clear teaching of Mrs. Eddy is the enlightenment on this very subject. The kingdom of God can only come on earth, as she points out, through an enriching and governing of man's affections by Principle.

Christian Science has not come to bring peace to material beliefs, but a sword; it has come to give us such a sense of the majesty and might of Principle as will endow us with the courage to battle manfully against the false domination of the carnal mind. Our daily and unceasing prayer should be for that cleansing of ourselves from secret faults, for that fidelity and virtue which marks the man after God's own heart. Prayer in its best sense is truly a communion with God, with intelligence, a quiet and deep recognition of Love's presence and protecting care,—the desire and the effort to use the gifts which good bestows and the consequent denial and rejection of every mortal fault and weakness. Its potency is expressed in right activity. Salvation from evil can only come through a knowledge of good,—a knowledge of good so clear and certain that one applies it unhesitatingly to human affairs and proves its efficacy in destroying the appearance of evil.

"Pray" is the Christian's vital breath.

He enters heaven with prayer." —James Montgomery.

Never, I believe, in all human history was there spread before the assembled nations—as in an open book—such an explanation and astounding revelation of the false nature of evil as is presented in the present crisis in the world's affairs. Nor has there ever been such a rallying to the standard uplifted by a more spiritual idea of life and government. We are living in a time of marvelous opportunity, when, as Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 83), "Science only can explain the incredible good and evil elements now coming to the surface." We are involved in the greatest struggle for liberty that humanity has ever known,—called upon to stand in the very front rank of battle by the side of our splendid allies, to represent a more spiritual sense of good, of life and government, in opposing the aggregate of the mortal belief in a power apart from good. We are under orders. Let us arise in the might of a right idea and stand, each in his own place, filled with faith and courage born of divine Love, and with the wish and will to sacrifice our sense of self for the good of all, let us uphold the standard of freedom. Right alone makes might; there is no love without intelligence and no intelligence except in that infinite, all-wise Love, that ever present divine basis of government, to which belongs all honor and justice, integrity and liberty.

Behold, here is the parting of the ways, and we who have named the name of Christ—that is, have acknowledged the nature, the character of Truth—are left no choice in the matter; we must walk the straight and narrow path of loyalty and duty. To-day we are, indeed, being weighed in the great balance of wisdom and Love. May we as a nation not be found wanting, but, on the contrary, be found with a deep and rich and growing affection for the things of the Spirit, with the capacity and power and will to uphold Principle in every department of life. Do not forget that your "eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord," and that to-day and here,

"He is sounding forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat; He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment seat; Oh! be swift, my soul, to answer Him; be jubilant, my feet! Our God is marching on."

—Julia Ward Howe.

The true brotherhood of man, real democracy,—these are ideas of Mind which are to be understood and demonstrated, and for this reason Christian Science undoubtedly affords the only consistent and permanent solution of the problems of labor and capital, of temperance and social reform, of the equal rights and responsibilities of men and women, of civil, religious, and racial liberty. The liberator is Love and Love alone, but not a weak and erring, sensual affection that selfishly condones or ignores the claim of evil. That alone is worthy the name of love that is identified with Principle,—that is keen and searching and unfailing in its detection of wrong, and unwavering in its demand upon the individual to separate himself from evil and walk uprightly. The sacrifice of false sense, of wayward will and lust for personal power and glory is demanded repeatedly by Love; but in reward for obedience to this demand, Love bestows the crowning reward of sonship in the kingdom of God. This is the proof of the healing efficacy of Christian Science, and it is applicable to every detail of human experience in the life of the individual and of the nation.

We can never show too grateful a love, too humble an appreciation of the mighty spirit and the tender compassion which impelled Mrs. Eddy to seek and to gain this great gift of knowledge, and to pour it, a veritable balm, into the hearts of a waiting world. In the beginning she had to beg and beseech, with tears running down her cheeks, to be permitted to help the afflicted out of their sufferings, but to-day the warm and pulsating affection of tens of thousands of those resurrected from sin and disease bears witness to her magnificent achievement. We love and reverence her for her purity and devotion to good, for her self-abnegation and her generous and loving sacrifice for our welfare, for the keenness of her vision and her intuitive grasp of the deep things of Mind. We pay her homage and acknowledge her absolutely unique place in the world's history as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and we heed both the spirit and the letter of her earnest admonition, "Follow your Leader only as far as she follows Christ" (Message for 1901, p. 34).

Do you realize what a marvel it is to human sense that to-day, in the very throes of the struggle against the powers of darkness and tyranny of materialism, in hamlets and villages, in great cities and in far countries, in great army camps and along far-flung battle lines, in the secret counsels of hundreds of thousands of individual hearts all round the globe, there is being repeated in the wonderful words of our beloved Leader a clear, succinct, inspired statement of demonstrable and demonstrated knowledge of what life actually is. The courage and the joy of it is beyond belief; it rings in our ears with no uncertain tone and finds its echo in our hearts.

The scientific statement of being (Science and Health, p. 468) is a trumpet call of truth which rallies to its support the thinking men and women of the age,—those worn and weary with the bondage of material sense and the wandering in the desert of mortal hopes and fears. The advancing hosts to-day follow its clarion note on, on, into the promised land.

In a gathering such as this, one recognizes the impulse of that "hunger and thirst after righteousness" which to-day urges the world of humanity to seek to understand the infinite Love, the divine intelligence which created and sustains the universe and man. Since God, good, is our Father and Mother, our true fatherland is the great kingdom of heaven, that land of promise which Moses so beautifully pictured to the children of Israel, in words that are figuratively and literally true, when he wrote: "For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills; a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates; a land of oil olive, and honey; a land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass. When thou hast eaten and art full, then thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land which he hath given thee" (Deuteronomy 8:7-10). This fair land, metaphysically understood, is the universe of Mind's creating,—the secret place of the Most High,—a present fact, not a future possibility, and Mrs. Eddy says that "of this kingdom there shall be no end," for Christ, God's idea, will eventually rule all nations and peoples—imperatively, absolutely, finally—with divine Science" (Science and Health, p. 565).

MEALS FOR NEEDY

During 1918 the Salvation Army served 68,722 free meals to the poor in California and 30,560 free beds were provided to those unable to pay for them. The policy of the Salvation Army is to help first and investigate afterwards.

SACRAMENTO—The first bills to be passed by the Forty-Third California Legislature have been signed by Governor Stephens. They are the measures making appropriations for the maintenance of the two new departments of the California District Courts of Appeal in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

IT'S PROPER IN PARIS

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for The United Press)

Tiger hunts in jungles
Are royal hunts they say;
Renard hunts in England
Are foxy sorts of play;
A cootie hunt out at the front
Was part of the affray.
But hunting flats in Paris
Is THE one sport today.

PARIS, Jan. 10. (By Mail).—If you have the strength of Samson, the patience of Job, the wealth of Croesus and the aggressiveness of Theodore Roosevelt, then you are fairly well equipped to become a successful hunter of furnished flats in this beautiful city of Paris in these beginning days of peace.

Before you start out as a first-class Diana or Nimrod to stalk the elusive "apartment meuble" to its lair be sure and lay in an extra stock of your sense of humor. It's worth more than bullets in this form of chase.

The first step is the merry round of all the agencies. "English spoken" is invariably emblazoned in letters of gold on the front window of every one, and invariably when you enter you find their silence in that language is as golden as the lettering.

Blithely and guilelessly you state your wants of a small apartment, not too far out, with bath, heat and hot water at about $100 a month. They gaze at you pityingly, or contemptuously, and murmur like the beginning of a fairy tale, "Once upon a time there were such things, but now since the hordes of American correspondents and journalists and diplomats and politicians and congressmen from Kansas and Virginia have overflowed fair France there isn't any such animal."

Finally if you persevere you manage to scrape up three addresses out of seven agencies. One has an elevator, heat, two bedrooms, salon, kitchenet and bath, all for $160. No. 2 is a studio apartment, up six flights with no ascensor and no heat, at $120. The third and last is parlor, bedroom and bath for only a paltry $200.

You dash madly out to hunt a taxi, which is a sort of branch hunt or side offshoot from the main or apartment hunt. In two hours, if you have luck, you find one that will take you because he is going that way to his lunch.

You arrive at prospect No. 1. You climb three flights because the ascensor is out of order, but the concierge assures you it will be working in 15 days. The heat and hot water and telephone will also be working in 15 days and as a matter of fact you can't have the apartment till then anyway because there are four English officers in it who won't be leaving for 15 days.

In spite of the delay and the fact it is more than you intended to pay, the place has possibilities. You recklessly decide to take it. The concierge goes to fetch the proprietor and leaves you mentally shifting the furniture to more aesthetic angles. She returns with joyful tidings. The proprietor is desolated but he has just rented it that morning to a minister of war. What business has a minister of war now anyway you'd like to know.

On to No. 2. This is in Montmartre, up six winding flights of stairs. When you reach the top you realize that it fairly reeks with Murgerism, fascination and garlic. It is much fuller of atmosphere than you are of breath.

The woman in charge isn't sure, but she thinks she has already rented it to a K. of C. man, but if you will call tomorrow at 2 she will let you know definitely.

It is tomorrow at 2. You have climbed the six flights of winding stair. You reel, weak and gasping, against the door which opens not to your raps. Nobody home!

You totter down and out. Marvelously corraling a taxi, you chug miles and miles across the river to the third and last address. Of course it is much more than you can afford to pay, but desperation goads you to it. You arrive, bankrupt and broken, to find it has been rented for three days.

At last, a gibbering and total wreck, you decide to take the next boat home. Ah yes, they assure you at the French steamship line they have one nice berth left on a boat leaving six months from next Thursday.

And so on with the sad, sad story.

PACT WITH ITALY BRINGS PROBLEM

(Written for The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The controversy between Italy and the Jugo-Slavs growing out of the secret treaties of the Allies, in which the United States had no part, is one of the most serious menaces to harmonious agreement on a peace settlement.

There seems to be no way for President Wilson to clear the peace table of this embarrassing complication without first forcing destruction of the secret treaties. This can be done only if the peoples of the United States and the Allied countries understand his position and are willing to back him in this difficult, but seemingly necessary undertaking. The trouble between the Italians and their new eastern neighbors arises from the London Pact of 1915. Article IV says that Italy shall have Isria, and Article V gives her Dalmatia and adjacent islands. The Jugo-Slavs contend that Italy has neither political nor ethnological claims to these territories, and a crisis of extreme delicacy had been precipitated that already has warranted some measures of intervention by the other Allies. According to the census of 1910, the population of Dalmatia was 645,666. Of these, it is estimated that 60,000 are Italians. The Slav inhabitants number approximately 480,000 and only about 30,000 of these speak Italian.

The principal reason why Italy wants Dalmatia is found in the formation of the littoral. On the Italian side, the Adriatic is shallow and sandy; it is a nice place for children to bathe, but is no place for shipping. The Dalmatian coast, on the other hand, is broken by bays and gulfs, and fringed with islands; and almost every mile has a commodious harbor for merchant vessels or a well-sheltered base for warships.

France and Great Britain are obligated to back up Italy's Dalmatian claims, in spite of the new Jugo-Slav nation, which presumably, until recently, has also been kept in ignorance of the secret treaties. They pledged themselves to do so in the treaty of 1915, and if they don't, Italy can seek revenge by opposing French and British claims in other districts. For instance, another secret memorandum provides for the partitioning of Arabia between France and Great Britain. If, at Versailles, France and Great Britain should balk at the treaty of 1915, Italy's representatives may well be expected to protest against the fulfillment of the arrangement regarding Arabia, and other secret understandings which are equally important to them.

One of the claims which Great Britain is expected to make under the shadow of the secret agreements is the exclusion of Germany from trade with China. Another will be an extended sphere of influence in Mesopotamia, including the world's richest oil regions. France and Italy are expected to demand an equal participation with Great Britain in the division of European Turkey. All of these agreements are mutual. They stand or fall on the common determination of the powers that made them to abide by them.

SERVICE AS RELIGION

That Service is the religion of the Salvation Army is exemplified by the report of its two rescue homes in California where 200 girls were cared for last year and 110 babies were born. A chain of these rescue homes and maternity hospitals extends around the world and 7,000 girls are restored to virtue annually, 3000 in the United States alone.

CHILDREN SERVED

Two hundred and fifty children are being trained in farming, horticulture, poultry, hog and sheep raising at the Salvation Army Industrial Home for Boys and Girls at Lytton, Sonoma county. Girls receive instruction in sewing, cooking, laundry work and general housework. These children are being reclaimed to become good citizens.

MEETINGS IN JAILS

In jails and penitentiaries in California the Salvation Army during 1918 conducted 12,382 meetings with an attendance of 627,800. The records show that 4923 discharged prisoners were helped last year with either positions, tools, beds, meals, clothing or transportation.

WORK FOR EVERYONE

In the industrial homes operated by the Salvation Army in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Jose, Sacramento, Oakland and San Diego over 100,000 meals and 36,000 beds have been supplied free or for service during the last year. Service is the religion of the Salvation Army.

WAS TOO PREVIOUS

The most biting irony that came out of Germany during the war was contained in the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, a little more than a year ago. Several of our soldiers had been captured by the Germans. They were dragged over the empire and exhibited to the enraged populace, just to show the Germans that the Americans were "not to be feared." The day the unfortunate prisoners arrived in Berlin the paper printed the following under the heading, "Good Morning, Boys:—"

"Three cheers for the Americans! Clever chaps they are, it cannot be denied. Scarcely have they touched the soil of this putrefied Europe when already they are forcing their way into Germany. Before long they will cross the Rhine and also enter our fortresses. That is express train speed for American smartness.

"It is our good fortune that we are equipped to entertain numerous guests and that we shall be able to provide quarters for these gentlemen. However, we cannot promise them doughnuts or jam, and to this extent they will be obliged to recede from their former standard of living.

"As Americans are accustomed to travel in luxury and comfort, we assume that these advance arrivals merely represent couriers for larger numbers to follow.

"We are sure the latter will come and be gathered in by us. At home they believe they possess the biggest and most colossal everything, but such establishments as we have here they have not seen.

"Look, here, my boys, here is the big firm of Hindenberg & Co., with which you want to compete. Look at its accomplishments and consider whether it would not be better to haul down your sign and engage in some other line.

"Perhaps your boss, Wilson, will reconsider his newest line of business before we grab off more of his young people."

"Clever chaps they are, it cannot be denied." Yes, they were "clever chaps." So clever that today, a short year after the sarcasm was printed in the Berlin newspaper, they are actually crossing the Rhine and entering fortresses which seemed so secure when the flippant editor glibbed the little handful of soldiers who had been overcome.

Personals

Joe Folz, of 350 Myrtle avenue, has gone to San Jacinto Hot Springs to try the effect of the waters on his rheumatism.

Mr. Edward M. Lee, who was operated upon the first of the week, is reported as recovering in excellent shape. He will be confined to his home for some time, however.

C. E. Peck is moving his jewelry store from the south side of Broadway to the north side and is establishing himself on the corner of Maryland and Broadway, opposite the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co.

Several parties are in prospect.
One is scheduled for next Friday night at Masonic Hall to be given by members of the senior class of Glendale Union High, with Hollis Moyse
as general manager.

Julius Moniot has returned from service in the spruce woods at Vancouver. He looks fine and his uniform is very becoming to him. He says he feels fine and that the work agreed with him. His brother, Ed Moniot, is said to be on the way home from overseas.

Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, who returned to Glendale Friday evening, have taken possession of their home on Orange street, which has just been vacated by the tenants.
They will probably have to keep open house for several days receiving the many friends who will want to greet him and hear of his experiences abroad.

James A. Farrell, of 1123 East
Broadway, left on the midnight train Friday night for Bakersfield where he will transact important business for the Barker Bros., with which firm he has been connected for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell attended the lecture at the Christian Science Church previous to his departure.

The Irish Linen Store has closed its doors. It is understood that the remaining stock is to be shipped elsewhere by the new owner, a Pasadena man. On account of the British government's control of flax, Irish Linen is practically a nonentity, according to a recent letter from Mr. W. J. Mc-Bratney, the original owner of the local store, who is now returning with his bride from Ireland.

Corporal George Grist has accompanied his friend, Corporal Albert Wheeler, to Phoenix, Ariz., where the two boys think they may find a chance to earn a small fortune and while they are investigating will visit relatives of Corporal Wheeler.
If they do not find what they want there they may go on to Texas. Corporal Grist plans to enter college next year and wants to accumulate a fund against that time.

This new establishment will handle millinery and ladies' furnishings.

Beautiful interior decorations are a feature of the new shop, the idea being to make it as home-like as possible.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service for the late Theodore Roosevelt will be held in the Grand Army Hall on Sunday, February 9th, at 3 p. m., to be participated in by G. A. R. Post and Woman's Relief Corps. Everybody invited. The Grand Army Post will at the same time hold memorial services for the five members they have recently lost by death.

GLENDAL DEBATORS

School, Los Angeles; N. R. Wilson, instructor in English at Manual Arts High, and Mr. Holden, history instructor at Venice High School. An interesting incident of the event was the large delegation which attended from the Compton High School where the same subject is to be debated in the near future. In this contest the decision of the judges was unanimously in favor of the Glendale representatives who debated the negative. The Santa Monica team that went to Hollywood also lost, so it will be seen that Hollywood won six of the judges, Glendale three, and Santa Monica none.

In explanation of Glendale's success, Mr. Root states that in form and mastery of their subject Balthis and Worley were superior to their Santa Monica opponents who were closely confined to their notes and did not therefore present their arguments in as effective a manner as they otherwise would. They argued first that government ownership and operation has always been uneconomical; that it leads to a loss of liberty on the part of the people; that there is no need to delay beyond twenty-one months; that in other parts of the world government operation and management has failed.

SOLID!

I would like to say to policyholders, and all others who are considering an increase in their insurance protection during these times of uncertainty, that they may feel very secure as to the financial condition of "The Provident."

In addition to a large surplus in the insurance department, which other mutual companies carry, the Provident has a stock capital of two millions and a stock surplus of six and a half millions in the trust department of the company, all of which could be used to pay claims in the insurance department, if needed.

Considering this fact, and also that the company is a federal reserve bank, with all the privileges which that implies, I consider the Provident the strongest company, financially, in America.

The Glendale team argued first of all that the time was insufficient for a test; that McAdoo's plan would be a practical solution by giving the government five years in which it could decide, and that the people of the United States deserved this test which is for their interests. The part that politics had played in railroad matters was touched upon, the Southern Pacific control of the California legislature at one time being referred to. It was contended that in spite of the difficulties of the war period, government control of railroads had made good; that it had proved efficient and economical, that it had the sympathy of labor, which last is a vital matter in troublous times like the present and those to come during the reconstruction period because it is important that labor be made contented. Both boys were fine in rebuttal, John Worley, who is new to debating contests, giving a very good account of himself.

DR. DILLON BRONSON TO SPEAK

Dr. Dillon Bronson of Boston will preach at the First Methodist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Bronson is one of the distinguished leaders of Methodism and a world traveler.

This is the second winter he has spent in California as a tourist, but his recognized abilities have afforded him few Sundays out of a pulpit.

He has supplied most of the larger Methodist pulpits of Southern California, and will begin the regular supply of the pulpit of First Church,
Long Beach, made vacant by Dr. J.
A. Geissinger being appointed as one of the leaders in the Methodist Centenary Movement on the Coast.

As a traveler in Europe and Asia, Dr. Bronson has become deeply interested in evangelization of foreign peoples, and in Southern California,
he has taken the cause of the neglected Mexicans, and especially the work of the Plaza Industrial Center
in Los Angeles.

DEATH OF MRS. WOOD

Mrs. Mary E. Wood died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Caroline Roland, 425 S. Central avenue, Eagle Rock, January 31st. Mrs. Wood's home was in Richmond, Cal., but she was spending the winter in the south.
She was 64 years and six months' old,
and was a native of New York.

Funeral services in charge of the Pulliam Undertaking Company will be held Monday, February 3rd, at 3
p. m., at the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, followed by cremation. The ashes will be taken back to her former home by Mrs. Davis of Hanford, Cal., daughter of the deceased.

HEARING ON VENTURA SCHOOL

Delegates from the Los Angeles Women's Clubs who had been instrumental in urging investigation of matters of discipline at the California State School for Girls at Ventura crowded the meeting Friday at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to hear the records of testimony as read by the secretary. From their own records the testimony of the State's witnesses was convicting.
Those who spoke at yesterday's meeting were Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. Jonathan Dodge, Mrs. Clinton L. Sterry, Mrs. Cora Deal Lewis, who were official representatives attending the hearing at Ventura, as were Mrs.
Chester C. Ashley, Mrs. W. W. Orcutt and Mrs. Oda Faulkner.

The delegates were unanimous in the decision that the entire regime and body of management be changed and termed the so-called house of no privilege a jail. No further action will be taken until the report of the State Board of Charities and Correction is submitted.

A resolution was adopted at the meeting of delegates which provided for a committee of five members to take such steps as might be deemed advisable.

AT THE PALACE GRAND

Admirers of William S. Hart will welcome the announcement that the Palace Grand on Saturday will show his latest thriller, "The Border Wireless." In William Hart the American ideal of the daring, courageous, but sound-hearted westerner, finds a favorite exponent and lovers of this characteristic drama of the big, open west, will enjoy this one. There will also be a typical Mack Sennett comedy, "Hide and Seek Detectives."

On Sunday "Cannibals of the South Sea Islands" as photographed at tremendous risk by Martin Johnson, will be presented on the screen.
Martin Johnson is an explorer and adventurer and is credited with having been a pal of Jack London. On the same program will be seen Constance Talmadge in her latest comedy drama, "A Lady's Name."

SELFISH CLAIMS ARE BAR TO PEACE

By AMOS PINCHOT

(Written for the United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The secret treaties formulated by the Allies before America entered the war would, if carried out, constitute a peace settlement as grasping and as hostile to world security as were the plans of the Hohenzollerns themselves.

European liberals argue that if such a settlement were consummated at the peace table, the name of Versailles would go down in history linked with that of Brest-Litovsk. They say that—not for the sake of Germany, but for the safety of the Allies and the United States—the people should aid in averting such a catastrophe by calling for prompt abandonment of the secret treaties.

Americans who have taken at face value the statements of foreign governments, to the effect that the war's sole objects were democracy and permanent peace, have been astonished at many of the territorial and trade claims which are being made by politicians in the victorious countries. Students of international relations do not seem to realize that by taking away Germany's colonies, depriving her of her West Rhine provinces, stripping her of potash, coal and ore, destroying her foreign commerce, and then saddling on her, in this crippled state, a mammoth indemnity, they will not be guaranteeing peace but, on the contrary, forcing Germany into offensive alliances with other nations which may become as serious a menace to peace as was the German empire before its

RICHMOND P. HOBSON

Glendale should look forward with great interest to the address to be given by Lieut. Richmond P. Hobson in the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening, February 4th. Young people who want to behold a real hero should come out to see and hear him for but a few years ago, during the Spanish-American War, the world rang with praise of his daring action in company with five companions when he entered the harbor of Santiago believed to be thoroughly mined and sunk the old ship, "Merrimac," in an attempt to bottle up Cervera's fleet. He has shown no less courage in his advocacy of the cause of prohibition, which he espoused before it was the popular issue it is today, and when it took real heroism, especially on the part of a naval officer, to take such a stand. Besides his excellent record in the navy, he has served his state, Alabama, in Congress, where he introduced several famous bills, viz., the spy bill, resolutions for a prohibition amendment, bill to establish a council of national defense, bill establishing the office of chief of naval operations which has brought efficiency and co-ordination to the navy. He is said to be one of the most finished, polished orators on the American platform, and but for the fact that he is trying to carry a big message to every part of the country, Glendale would not have the opportunity to hear him. Admission is free and everybody is urged to come.

secret note of the Russian foreign minister to the French ambassador, under date of Feb. 1, 1917. This note says, in part, as follows:

"The boundaries will be extended at least to the limits of the former principality of Lorraine, and will be fixed under the direction of the French government. At the same time strategic demands must be taken into consideration so as to include within the French territory the whole of the industrial iron basin of the Valley of the Saar. * * *

In addition to the demands just mentioned, secret memoranda provide that England and Italy are to have extensions of territory along the Red Sea, France a large coast strip of Syria, England Bagdad and the ports of Harpha and Akka, France, a share of Asiatic Turkey, to be defined by future agreement. The central powers are to lose the Trentino, Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Transylvania, Bohemia and Galicia; Bulgaria is to confirm the Dobrudja to Roumania. I have already spoken of the exclusion of German trade in China, which is a deadening blow to German commerce, and of England's seizure of the oil fields in Southern Mesopotamia. The Secret Treaties do not make definite disposition of the German African colonies, a domain twice as large as all the rest of the German Empire, but there has been very complete understanding between the Allies that England should keep them.

Inasmuch as, according to the Manchester Guardian, it is proposed to extract from Germany an indemnity of $120,000,000,000, the above quoted section of this note implies that France will occupy the German left bank provinces for an indefinite period, and probably forever, thus undoubtedly creating in the German mind the same feeling of wrong that the seizure of Alsace-Lorraine produced among the French. It would simply amount to moving "revanche" from one bank of the Rhine to the other.

SPECIALISTS BEING DEVELOPED

An army of chicken, sheep, bee and hog raisers are being mobilized at Lytton, Sonoma county, where the Salvation Army conducts an industrial home for boys and girls. This army is composed of children and is under the direction of an instructor sent by the state from the State Farm at Davis to teach the young idea the arts of agriculture and kindred subjects.

Specialists are being developed. Boys are being made into experts on cows and hogs while girls are learning all about bees and chickens. Even the horses are studied and the lads taught regarding their capacity to pull and the kind and amount of feed they should have.

The hog pen has been overhauled even though Mr. and Mrs. Pig grunted their disapproval. Every bird, animal, building and implement came in for inspection when the State expert arrived. He took his young army about the farm and commented upon everything.

Now a group of happy children are enjoying a task that is fitting them to go out into the world to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before, to raise hogs and cows that are worthy their keep. The girls are becoming artists in looking after bees and chickens. The dream of those earnest Salvationists who started the Lytton Industrial Home for Boys and Girls is coming true. It is turning out good, worthy, industrious young men and women.
